Banh Mi: A French-Vietnamese Fusion

Introduced by the French, Banh Mi has become one of Vietnam's most popular street foods. A Banh Mi is essentially a baguette filled with various savory ingredients such as grilled pork, pâté, pickled vegetables, and fresh herbs. It offers a perfect combination of flavors and textures. You can find Banh Mi for as low as $1-$2 from street vendors or small local bakeries. It's a satisfying and economical option for a quick bite in Hanoi.

Bun Cha: Grilled Pork Noodles

Bun Cha is a classic Hanoi dish that consists of grilled pork patties served with rice noodles and a side of broth. This dish is known for its smoky and slightly sweet flavors. For just around $2-$3, you can enjoy a bowl of Bun Cha that will leave you wanting for more. Many locals consider Bun Cha to be a must-try when exploring the food scene in Hanoi.

Com Tam: Broken Rice Delight

Com Tam is a popular local dish in Hanoi that features broken rice served with various toppings. The term "Com Tam" refers to the broken rice grains that are softer and more porous compared to regular rice. You can have Com Tam with grilled pork chop, shredded pork skin, and a fried egg, accompanied by pickled vegetables. This dish is not only delicious but also incredibly affordable, typically costing around $2-$3.

Che: Sweet Treats

No meal is complete without a dessert, and Hanoi has some delightful sweet treats to offer. Che is a traditional Vietnamese dessert that comes in various forms and flavors. From refreshing coconut jelly to sticky rice with sweet beans and fruits, Che is a perfect way to satisfy your sweet tooth. You can find Che at street stalls or local markets for as little as $1-$2.

Experience Hanoi's Culinary Treasures on a Budget

Hanoi is a food lover's paradise, offering a wide range of culinary delights at affordable prices. By exploring the city's street food scene and local eateries, you can enjoy a variety of dishes for as little as $5. So, if you're in Hanoi, don't hesitate to immerse yourself in the mouth-watering flavors of Vietnamese cuisine without breaking the bank!
