The First Stitch

It all started innocently enough, with Hilda using her knitting skills to donate cozy scarves and hats to the less fortunate. However, her obsession soon took a sinister and deadly turn. She discovered a twisted satisfaction in creating garments designed to harm.

Patterns of Destruction

Hilda's patterns were meticulously crafted to cause harm to those who wore her knitted creations. From neck warmers that tightened relentlessly to suffocate her victims, to gloves lined with tiny poison needles, her knitted items became instruments of death.

Unsuspecting Victims

The unsuspecting victims who fell into Hilda's trap had no idea of the danger lurking within the supposedly comforting warmth of her knitted products. From prominent politicians to everyday people, her targets were chosen randomly, making everyone a potential victim.

The Perfect Crime

Hilda's meticulous planning and attention to detail allowed her to escape suspicion for an extended period of time. With her innocent demeanor, she easily gained the trust of her victims, making her crimes all the more shocking.

The Hunt for Hilda

As Hilda's body count grew, detectives began to connect the dots and realized they were dealing with a knitting serial killer. A nationwide hunt for Hilda Hopkins Domi Knit Rix was launched, captivating the nation as people could not comprehend how knitting could be used for such evil purposes.

The Final Stitch

After a thrilling chase that spanned several states, law enforcement authorities finally captured Hilda in her secluded hideaway, surrounded by her deadly knitted creations. The shocking reality of her crimes sent shockwaves through the knitting community, forever tarnishing the innocent art of knitting.

Legacy of Horror

Hilda Hopkins Domi Knit Rix's story serves as a grim reminder that evil can lurk in the most unexpected places. It has haunted the knitting community, instilling an inherent fear in the very activity that once brought comfort and joy to countless individuals.

The chilling tale of Hilda Hopkins Domi Knit Rix will forever be etched in the annals of true crime history. Be wary of the next knitted gift you receive, for you never know if it carries the mark of this machine knitting serial killer.

Hilda Hopkins is up to her old tricks. After a close shave with her old nemesis, PC Barbara Grey, at Victoria Station, Hilda finds herself a cushy billet as Maid to a Madame. Madame Tempest to be precise! While Madame busies herself handing out discipline, lines and lashes to a steady stream of middle aged and otherwise highly respectable naughty schoolboys, Hilda knits up some lovely outfits for them to wear, just like Nanny used to make!

Of course, before she can crochet a bonnet to match that cute man-size buster suit with the teddy on the front, Hilda has to knit herself a garrotte and hand out a little BDSM of her own. Inspired by some old Alec Guinness movies and a nearby railway line, it isn't long before Hilda's victims are turning up in goods yards across the country!
