In a world where greatness and success are often equated with power, wealth, and fame, it is refreshing to come across someone like Engr. Monica Okeoghene Ofagbe. Her story is not one of glitz and glamour, but of resilience, perseverance, and a determination to make a difference. This article is a tribute to an extraordinary woman who has dedicated her life to improving the lives of others and leaving a lasting impact on society.

The Early Years

Engr. Monica Okeoghene Ofagbe was born on the 15th of July, 1975, in the quiet town of Ozoro, Delta State, Nigeria. Growing up in a modest family, she was instilled with the values of hard work, integrity, and the importance of education from an early age. Encouraged by her parents, she excelled academically and showed a keen interest in science and technology.

Her passion for engineering was ignited when she attended a career fair at her secondary school. She was fascinated by the various possibilities that engineering offered and knew that this was the path she wanted to pursue. With the support of her family, she enrolled at the prestigious University of Nigeria, Nsukka, where she obtained a Bachelor's degree in Electrical Engineering.
