A well written book seen through the eyes of a young man. His dad is overseas in the Navy during combat. So his Mom teaches Jeremy that "All things are possible through God." The author crafts a story of adventure and love to illustrate the wisdom a young man develops when faced with the unknown. My grand kids loved this book. Side note: I researched the USS New York LPD-21. This "modern" vessel was constructed in part from melted steel from the trade towers. Very interesting. "The significance of where the WTC steel is located on the 684-foot-long ship symbolizes the strength and resiliency of the citizens of New York as it sails forward around the world," said Cmdr. Quentin King, Navy program manager representative on site.
