The author Glen Johnson's journey continues. We learned in Part One that he decided to give away all his worldly possessions and embark on a journey of a lifetime – to see as much of the world as humanly possible before he's buried six feet under it. Accompanied by his older 'insightful' brother Gary, he started his adventure on Bangkok's famous Khaosan Road. The first book covered a two-week period of the two brothers trying to come to terms with an alien culture and strange new cuisine.

In Part Two the book covers an original two-week visit – his first journey to Krabi Town – and then Glen's repeated returns over the years, and how he ended up building a house in Krabi District.

As well as the authors experience with the area, and people; you get a travel guide type of reading experience, looking at the most popular local temples and attractions, and the areas major markets, as well as useful information about everything from where to get the best food, to what to stay well clear of.

Krabi Town is the diving board into crossing the Malaysian border. Learn everything you need to know about getting around, sightseeing, and the local cuisine.

This book is perfect if you are thinking of travelling in Krabi District in Thailand, or if you simply wish to read a travel book to broaden your horizons. Join Glen Johnson and his brother Gary as they continue their Asian tour.
