As Bonnie continued to explore the world of knitting, she found joy and solace in expressing her imagination through the creation of mythical creatures. Drawing inspiration from folklore, fairy tales, and her own dreams, she developed a unique style that resonates with both children and adults alike.

The Magical Process of Creating a Knitted Knome

Each Knitted Knome crafted by Bonnie Bright goes through an intricate and meticulous process. Starting with high-quality yarn and knitting needles, Bonnie carefully knits every piece of the gnome by hand. From the body to the hat to the little details like buttons or accessories, no detail is left unattended.

Once the knitting is complete, the gnome comes to life through the meticulous work of embroidery and embellishments. Bonnie pays close attention to facial expressions, making sure each knitted knome carries its own unique personality. The hand-stitched eyes, rosy cheeks, and mischievous smiles bring the creatures to life and add an extra touch of charisma.

But Bonnie's work doesn't stop there. She believes that every knitted knome needs a cozy home, so she handcrafts little houses and props to complement her creations. These miniature abodes are adorned with intricate details, ensuring that each knome has a cozy and whimsical dwelling.

The Personalities of The Knitted Knomes Bonnie Bright

What sets The Knitted Knomes Bonnie Bright apart is the incredible diversity of personalities portrayed in her creations. Each knome exudes its own unique charm and character, making it easy for anyone to find a favorite.

There's Gustav, a knome with a passion for storytelling who always carries a miniature book wherever he goes. Then there's Penelope, a mischievous knome known for her playful pranks and infectious laughter. And who could forget Elijah, the wise knome who imparts wisdom and guidance to anyone who seeks his advice?

Whether you're an avid collector or buying your first knome, there's a Bonnie Bright creation that will capture your heart and imagination.

Old toy soldiers never die. They're simply frayed away.

1940. World War Two is in full swing, and bombs are falling on Britain. When his evacuee granddaughter goes into hospital, James Phillips has to keep busy. Without money or coupons, he makes do and mends, knitting four toys – which secretly come to life!

As they begin their adventures, the 'Knomes' realise that James can't win the war alone. They learn the terror of conflict, and the depths of human spirit, making every effort to do their bit through ingenious schemes and a dash of stern fibre.

Will Tom and his woolly friends hang together, or will it all unravel?
